Today a New Year's ushered in,

And if each day it falls my lot,

I shall have felt no more or less

Than just a simple duty done;

And in the doing feel the good

I shall feel good if I am strong

And if I may from day to day

I shall feel good if all my acts

Will bear the scrutiny of facts;

At end of week, I take my pay:

If half my thoughts of others are,

Not all of self and my own care;

That which pleases you and you.

I shall feel good if I may do

If I may hold the friendship, love

Of those who toil with me the day;

And feel no conscience-stricken thought

And laugh if it may help to cheer,

And prize the friendship I have won,

I shall feel good for what I've done.

Who in his sorrow needs a friend,

That comes from kindness understood.

And smile on him who needs a smile,
